

50 Years of Women Voters

The League of Women Voters is rounding out its first half-century this year. Born in 1920, it grew out of the National American Women Suffrage Association—the famed Suffragettes who waged a 72-year campaign to get women the vote and that year achieved victory with adoption of the 19th Amendment.

Figures on how many women vote are only estimates since no nationwide statistics are kept, but they obviously have made a big difference in the national electorate. The total vote jumped from less than 18 million in 1916—the last men-only presidential election—to more than 25 million in 1920—the first in which women went to the polls. The women's percentage of the total vote has risen steadily from a low of 28 per cent in 1920 to an estimated 51 per cent in the 1966 congressional elections—the first year women outnumbered men among actual voters.

And away they go! Suffragettes, on parade above in New York City, were a familiar sight in many American cities in the long campaign for the women's vote. Susan B. Anthony, right, is a hallowed name in the women's hall of fame. Born Feb. 15, 1820, she died 14 years before the victory, but her dedication sparked the drive that eventually wrote women's suffrage into the Constitution.

Its original purpose was to prepare the recently enfranchised American woman to carry out her new responsibilities, but the League of Women Voters soon shifted emphasis. The nonpartisan organization, numbering more than 150,000 members, now concentrates on encouraging informed and active participation by all citizens, men and women, in government and politics.

Majority Party Law Passed by House

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House today passed a bill that attached the emergency clause to a majority party measure which became law without the governor's signature.

The bill defines the majority party as that having the greater number of state constitutional officers.

The vote was 81-3, with three of the four Republican members of the House voting against it.

Rep. George Nowotny of Fort Smith, who spoke against the measure, voted for it in order to serve notice of reconsideration but he did not get to do so because Speaker Hayes McClerkin recognized one of the Democratic members who moved that the clincher be applied to the vote.

The clincher motion — which prevents reconsideration — was adopted.

The bill was coauthored by Sens. W. K. Ingram of West Memphis and Clarence Bell of Parkin. The Senate already had adopted the emergency clause and the clincher.

The House also adopted an amendment to the administration's proposal to increase the tax on a 32-gallon barrel of beer from $5 to $10.

Rep. N.B. "Nap" Murphy of Hamburg, sponsor of the bill, said the amendment would change the requirement of the number of votes needed for passage of the bill.

As drafted, Murphy said, the bill needed 75 favorable votes to be approved, but with the amendment approval of the bill could be accomplished with 51 votes.

The amendment was adopted by a 78-1 vote.

However, McClerkin said he would rule that the bill needed 75 votes whether the amendment was attached or not.

Passed 85-2 and sent to the governor was a Senate bill to change the name of the state Publicity and Parks Commission to the state Parks, Recreation and Travel Commission.

The lower chamber also passed a Senate bill which would make physicians and

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bittel

TRANSCRACIAL ADOPTIONS, PRO AND CON

Dear Helen: I feel qualified to answer questions about mixed-race adoptions (as asked by one of your readers) because we are the adoptive parents of a little brown child.

My husband and I were blessed with three natural-born, healthy, beautiful blond sons. For health reasons, we felt it inadvisable to have another child, although we did desire a daughter.

We decided to adopt a child, and in talking with the Children's Home Society, we found there was a category of child called "hard-to-adopt." These included children who were beyond the infant stage, children with medical problems, and children of minority heritage, especially those of mixed-racial background.

We felt that our kind of home was one in which a child of any background would be welcomed, loved and accepted. Consequently, we adopted a little daughter of minority race, with brown skin, black hair, and big black eyes.

Lisa is 16 months old now, and a lovely, happy child. She is adored by her brothers and shown off with much pride as "our little adopted sister."

There were some objections from friends, and even a few relatives who felt this was not proper, and indeed would cause a hardship on the boys to have to "defend" such a sister. However, most of these feelings slipped away as people actually saw and could hold the baby. It is easy to be prejudiced to an "idea" or a group of unknown people, but rare to have negative feelings against one sweet little baby.

I would urge anyone thinking of a mixed-race adoption to give it much thought, as this is not for everyone. We have found our family is always in the limelight.

members of hospital utilization review committees for Medicare immune from liability. The vote was 76-1.

A bill that would authorize cities or towns to levy an annual motor vehicle tax of up to $5 was also passed by the House by a 76-3 vote.

I am sure most of the attention is just curiosity, for the contrast between the children is striking. On occasion, I have had people question my moral integrity and this is, of course, upsetting.

The most important advice I could give would be: Go to a good licensed adoption agency—state, county or private—and talk it over with them. Be completely honest in how you feel. They will help you evaluate those feelings.

More families who are willing to show love and acceptance of all races are desperately needed in our world today. All children should be accepted and loved for themselves. What better way to live this love than to take a child of a different racial background into your family?—MRS. D.C.

P.S. We feel so strongly about this matter we are planning to adopt another daughter of mixed-racial heritage.

Dear Helen: You said you wished more people would show the positive side on the race question. I couldn't agree more! We are the parents of two children, one Caucasian, born to us, and one of Negro-Caucasian mixture. We are members of an organization, "Transracial Adoptive Parents," which includes over 100 families in the Chicago area. We say to interested parents: "Come on in, the water's fine!"

We all recognize the many problems that can occur as our children grow up, but we also are terribly aware of the alternative, which is a series of foster homes or no family, at all, as you so correctly pointed out, Helen.—MRS. S.G.

Dear Helen: About mixed-race adoptions: "Mixing" does not make people change their ideas nor does it control their comments. I feel the "different race" child would be far happier in a dorm with other half-breeds, just as retarded children are happier in State homes, among their own kind.—FROM DALLAS

Dear Dallas: You sound like the kind of person who says, "Why some of my best friends are..." —And I'll bet you're so narrow-minded you don't even realize I just insulted you!—H.

fourths majority.

The original beer tax was levied on beer with an alcohol content of 3.2 per cent shortly before the effective date of a 1935 constitutional amendment requiring a three-fourths vote to increase any tax in existence in 1935.

Since the original beer tax was levied on "3.2" beer, which is no longer sold in Arkansas, and Griffin believes his amendment would create a new tax requiring only a simple majority vote for passage.

Both houses of the legislature were busy Thursday, but neither took up major legislation. It was a day for noncontroversial bills in the House, which passed a bill 78-0 to authorize an additional term of up to seven years when a firearm is used in an escape from prison or in the commission of a crime.

The bill, by Sen. Milt Earnhart of Fort Smith, goes to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller for his signature. Rockefeller had vetoed an earlier Earnhart measure making the seven-year sentence mandatory.

The Senate voted 18 to 3 to create a second circuit judge's position in the 1st Judicial Circuit. Sen. Fred Stafford of Marked Tree cast the deciding vote, although he said he had been committed to vote against the measure. Stafford said he thought the bill had enough votes for passage and he had cast his as a "courtesy" to the measure's sponsors.

The bill is supported by the Bar Associations in four of the five counties in the circuit, but opposed by the fifth in White County.

The White County Group has said the bill was designed for one man. Although it hasn't identified him, it has been reported that Prosecutor Lloyd Henry of Searcy wanted to run for the second judgeship.

White County sources also have said the bill would head off a move to separate the county from the circuit. One reason given for the move is that the eastern counties of the circuit with a heavy Negro population want to retain the white votes in White County.

Sen. Joe Lee Anderson of Helena, one of the sponsors of the bill, said the measure would relieve the heavy workload on Judge Elmo Taylor of Searcy, whom Anderson said had the highest case load of any circuit judge. He said Taylor supported the bill.

Sen. Robert Harvey of Swiftton opposed the bill because, he said, the state should restrict its judicial circuits to make the case loads more equal between circuits with heavy loads and those with light ones.

The House passed 69-3 a bill by Rep. Sterling R. Cockrill Jr. of Little Rock to require competitive bidding on lease-purchase agreement entered into by the state Aeronautics Commission for the use of an airplane.

The House also passed 70-7 a bill by Rep. Worth Camp of El Dorado to create a land reclamation commission to study strip mining laws of other states. It is to recommend reclamation proposals.

A bill by Rep. Bennie Ryburn of Monticello to change the name of Arkansas A&M College at Monticello to Arkansas A & M University passed 62-6.

The House adopted a concurrent resolution calling for the creation of a legislative committee to attempt to resolve a dispute over a Game and Fish Commission order prohibiting the free-running of dogs in four summer months.

In other action, the Senate: —Passed and sent to Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller a bill by Rep. Morris Henry of Fayetteville requiring candidates for school board positions to file 45 days ahead of the election rather than 20 days in advance.

—Failed 16-7 to pass a bill stating that a motorist is deemed to have given consent to chemical tests to determine the alcoholic content of his blood if he is arrested for drunken driving. Sen. Fred Stafford of Marked Tree gave notice of reconsideration.

—Passed 28-1 a bill by Sen. John F. Gibson of Dermott requiring the state Pardon Board to obtain the written recommendations from the court, the prosecuting attorney and the sheriff of a county from which an inmate was committed to prison before granting a parole.

—Passed a bill by Sen. J. Ed Lightle of Searcy and Clifton Wade of Fayetteville codifying the state banking laws.

Shy Fox Has Little Edge

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP) — Shy Fox, $137.80, edged Joe Di Rosa in a photo finish in winning the $3,800 feature race Thursday as

Under the same law, varying increases also went into effect for Cabinet members, federal judges and other high federal office-holders.

Although some members will not doubt complain that the current boost is not enough and others that it is too much, there's little question that the $42,500 will go farther than the meager wages paid the first congressmen.

"In Congress there are about five persons who look like gentlemen. All the rest come in the filthiest dress and are well indeed if they look like farmers," a British diplomat wrote home in 1805.

The scale then was $6 a day, an amount set in 1789 and unchanged until 1818.

Congressmen also got an allowance of $6 for every 20 miles they had to travel to get to Washington and back home—once. Now representatives are paid in full for one trip home each month Congress is in session, plus an extra one, and senators get seven.

The first congressional pay raise voted in 1818, increased the daily rate to $8. It lasted for 38 years.

In 1856 the members were finally put on an annual rate — $3,000. The authors of the legislation tried to cling to the no-work, no-pay concept of the daily wage by adding a provision that there would be a deduction for each day a member was absent for any reason other than illness.

Either the attendance in those days was remarkable, the excuses ingenious or the bookkeeping too difficult. At any rate the deduction provision was rarely, if ever, used and quickly fell into disuse.

Salary legislation began to come a little quicker after that. In 1866 the rate was boosted to $5,000 and seven years later to $7,500. The second step proved to be too quick.

The financial panic of 1873 touched off a slump that caused the public to look with disfavor on the Congressional wallet-fattening and in 1874 the raise was repealed, dropping the salary back to $5,000.

The public wrath must have been intense. It was 33 years before Congress raised its pay again, then, in 1907, it eased up to $7,500 and made it stick.

In the booming Twenties Congress went along with the prevailing mood and boosted salaries to $10,000. And in the Depression it also went along and reduced them. Cuts of 15 per cent, 10 per cent and 5 per cent were voted in 1932, '33 and '34 but in 1935 the $10,000 level was regained.

In Washington's Time

Life mask of George Washington, made in 1755. - Pierpont Morgan Library

Documents of an era, when they survive, give us the flavor of the times. The rare documents of Washington's day displayed on this page are only a small sample of an extensive private collection belonging to Mr. Ernest L. Chambre, of New York. They reveal details of the topics which filled the minutes, and the days, which made up the momentous years through which Washington lived: years when the first few colonists were spurred by misery and injustices into daring to grasp their freedom.

Mr. Chambre's collection comprises a vast number of American documents from the colonial and revolutionary periods. A customs specialist by profession, his lifetime hobby has been collecting American historical letters and manuscripts. This selection is particularly interesting in that it includes references to matters which still concern us today—prisoner-of-war exchange, taxation, pensions and loyalty oaths.

History can seem remote, and heroes awesome figures. But they spoke our language, after all, and to read the words which they read, and those which they themselves penned, is an exciting experience which gives an extra dimension to our understanding of the past.

No Poverty

Although poverty may be wide spread in the U.S., as many critics contend, it hasn't struck government yet. According to the Tax Foundation, Inc., federal, state and local governments will collect an equivalent of $3,927 from each American family in 1969.

It's significant to note that this average cost is approximately $600 more than the federal government says is necessary to move a family of four above the poverty level. — Dallas (Tex.) Morning News

Fog Festival Hoping for Bad Weather

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (AP) — It's about time for the second annual February Fog Festival and Paul Cornwell and his crew are hoping the sun doesn't come out and spoil everything.

"The weather here is looking very bad indeed," Cornwell reports with downright satisfaction. "We are confident the weather for the Fog Festival will be just beautiful" — meaning lousy to most folks.

Cornwell, known around this southwest Washington Pacific resort as "Leakyboat," dreamed up the festival idea with a few others to liven up a month normally about as exciting as wet sand.

The memory of last year's first annual FFF still ranks because, as Cornwell recalls, "Ocean Shores had a fearsome week of fine, clear weather."

What is a February Fog Festival? Well, it's anything from shooting fish in a rain barrel, a possible competitive event this year, to the planned "First Annual Kick-the-Can Superbowl."

The main event for the FFF on Feb. 22-23, of course, will be the annual North American Mid-Winter wading championships on Sunday.

That's a "soggy socks spectacular," Cornwell explains, "which sends intrepid competitors dashing 100 yards into the Pacific Ocean surf, around a pole and back, through waves up to seven feet high."

Last year 19 contestants assaulted the briny in this event, Cornwell says, and if they tended to turn a bit blue they knew they would be warmed by streams of hot water from an "official contest reheater" at the finish.

"It's absolutely breath-taking," says one old-timer.

Israeli Jets Hit Guerrillas Inside Jordan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Israeli jet fighters struck a suspected Arab guerrilla pocket inside Jordan today, the Israeli army announced.

Israeli ground troops backed up the 25-minute air assault with firing across the border. A spokesman said the guerrillas at the Qatef outpost, inside Jordan just south of the Sea of Galilee, had fired bazookas and small arms at an army patrol.

Jordan reported two attacks by Israeli jets, one lasting 30 minutes and another an hour later. A spokesman said napalm bombs were dropped by Jordanian forces suffered no losses.

Another Israeli patrol came under light fire as it moved down a street Thursday night in the occupied town of Hebron, south of Jerusalem. The patrol returned the fire.

The army said there were no Israeli casualties in either incident. Israel's second largest political group, the Gahal party, voted early today to remain in the coalition government headed by Premier Levi Eshkol, ending three days of political uncertainty.

The Gahal party was angered by Eshkol's statement in an interview with Newsweek magazine that his government was willing to give up much of the territory seized in the 1967 war.

The Gahalites want Israel to keep all of the occupied areas.

Admirals in Pueblo Case to Tour Ship

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) —

The five admirals on the court of inquiry investigating the capture of the USS Pueblo by North Korea across the continent today to get a "working knowledge" of an intelligence ship.

Accompanied by their counsel and counsel for the Pueblo's skipper, the admirals planned to inspect the USS Palm Beach at Norfolk, Va., before flying back here Saturday afternoon.

The skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, will remain in San Diego. Looking tanned and rested, Bucher was recalled Thursday as a witness to clarify certain points about his own intelligence ship's capture by North Koreans and to comment on testimony from other witnesses since he opened the testimony three weeks ago with a lengthy, sometimes anguished account.

The Palm Beach is described as 200 tons larger than the Pueblo and has different compartmentation.

Things Quiet for Nixon's Neighbors

By STRATTON L. DOUTHAT

Associated Press Writer

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) —

There's been a distinct absence of door-to-door peddlers at John Hardy's house since President Nixon moved in across the street.

Since the winter White House was established on the coconut palm-shrouded street, Bay Lane has been off limits for everybody but residents and their visitors.

Secret Service agents man a blockade at the head of the road 24 hours a day and make certain nobody wanders in. Residents must show their identification each time they pass.

"It can be annoying to be stopped when you're in a hurry," says Hardy, "but the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages."

"For instance," added Hardy, a British steamship agent, "it's fascinating to watch the President come and go. There are no itinerant salesmen and the security here is great."

Bay Lane is on Key Biscayne, an island on Biscayne Bay about four miles from downtown Miami. Like many other upper class residential areas, it has its share of burglaries. But not any more, with the security men on hand.

The President owns four homes and leases another on the Bay Side of the block-long, dead-end road. His complex is well hidden behind a 15-foot high hedge.

Nixon's not much of a yard man, says Hardy. Whenever he's outside, he usually walks on the beach or wades in the surf.

Boaters must stay at least 500 yards away from the President's beach and aircraft are forbidden to fly low over his part of the island.

Farmer Tells Why He Took Post

NEW YORK (AP) — James

Farmer said Thursday night he accepted the post of assistant secretary of health, education and welfare because "I haven't given up the belief that it is possible to make the establishment work on behalf of the poor and the blacks."

"At least I must try," he said in a speech at the Brooklyn College Student Center.

The former chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, who ran unsuccessfully as a Republican for a Brooklyn congressional seat last November, said of President Richard M. Nixon, "I've said some very mean things about him. But he's the only president we have. If he fails, then we all fail."

Farmer, a Negro, supported Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee, against Nixon, who recently admitted to paying few "friends" among blacks.

Peru Frees U.S. Fishing Vessel

By JOE MCGOWAN JR.

Associated Press Writer

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian government has released an American tuna boat captured in the Pacific Friday, but Washington sources said the incident could precipitate a cutoff of U.S. aid to Peru.

The American vessel, Mariner, was captured by a Peruvian navy gunboat which attacked a small fishing fleet more than 23 miles off the Peruvian coast. The skipper of another vessel reported his boat was peppered with machine gun fire before the gunboat was driven off.

No injuries were reported in the attack, which U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers called "wholly unjustified."

Peru's ambassador to the United States, Fernando Berckmeyer, said the American boats were operating in Peruvian waters without licenses. Peru claims territorial jurisdiction 200 miles out to sea, but the United States considers any boat in international waters if it is more than 12 miles off the coast.

The Peruvian Naval Ministry said Friday the Mariner was released at the port of Talara after the skipper, Joseph Lewis of San Diego, Calif., paid an unspecified fine.

Skipper John Verissimo of the San Juan, one of the American fishing boats, said the Peruvian gunboat put five men aboard the Mariner.

"Then they came after us," Verissimo said in a radio-telephone interview. "They fired more than 50 shots at us. They tried to board us from the stern, but I outmaneuvered them."

The owner of both the San Juan and the Mariner, Ed Gann of San Diego, said he received reports that two other U.S. fishing boats went to the San Juan's rescue.

"They figured the only way to help the San Juan would be to ram the patrol boat," Gann said. "Then the patrol boat turned and ran."

August Felano, manager of the North American Association of Tuna Fishermen, said it was the second time this year that an American fishing boat had been fired on by Peru and the 75th time since 1961 that a U.S. fishing boat has been seized by a South American country.

The State Department has not said whether the law would be invoked.

Americans Still Want Secret Talks

PARIS (AP) — Despite a public

rebuff from the North Vietnamese, American peace negotiators in Paris indicate they are still hopeful the Vietnam talks will soon enter a phase of secret contacts.

After a fruitless six-hour session Thursday, U.S. chief negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge told newsmen: "I don't expect much to come out of these public meetings."

Asked about a Communist report that at least one secret contact took place on American initiative last week, U.S. delegation spokesman William Jordan grinned and repeated his long-standing rule never to comment on secret talks.

He urged newsmen not to insist on detailed replies to all their questions "to permit the art of quiet diplomacy to work its way."

Many of the newsmen felt this remark and his grin constituted an unspoken confirmation of the report.

Nguyen Thanh Le, spokesman for the Hanoi delegation, accused the Americans of deliberately "spreading rumors of private meetings like straws in the wind."

If the United States has anything it wants to discuss, he added, it can do so at the weekly formal conference sessions.

The Thursday meetings have become a regular Thursday propaganda battle at which the opposing sides bombard each other with invective and restate their entrenched positions. The fourth such session Thursday was no exception.

Lodge said he was "disappointed but not disheartened" by the Hanoi-NLF attitude.

The Years Usually End Many a Budding St. Valentine Day Romance

By MARY ANITA LASETER

Yesterday was Valentine's Day, a time for hearts and flowers. . . and maybe some nostalgia. Do you remember the first time a boy gave you a Valentine? I don't, but I do remember the first time I got one delivered personally to my house because I'd missed Valentine's Day at school.

It was almost worth being sick in bed with a stomach ache from eating some gosh-awful combination of foods that no one but I would think of mixing.

Next to Christmas, Valentine's Day was best of all the holidays, I thought. For days before the event, some of the girls in the class spent recess periods putting crepe paper, hearts and arrows (no one ever tried to make a cupid as that was too hard) on the biggest pasteboard box that could be found. The teacher always did most of the work, but she was smart enough to make the kids think they were doing the "decorating."

Then, on February 14th the box was opened in the afternoon, and the rest of the day was lost in boys' blushes and girls' giggles and paper Valentines 10-for-a-dime. Occasionally, some big spender put 10 or 15 cents into the purchase of a single Valentine that folded back to make a ruffled heart.

The details surrounding the Valentine's Day I missed at school are a little vague, but it was in the second or the third grade. I'm not even sure if a Valentine that folded back to make a ruffled heart was one with my name on it. Nothing comes through in memory about those insignificant things, because the most important fact was that a boy named Willard brought me my Valentines after school.

All day had been kinda' sad for me because I couldn't be at school when THE BOX was opened, but all was forgotten when a knock at the door brought a grinning, freckled face ever-so-briefly as an arm handed Mother a sack with Mary's Valentines. He probably didn't even know I was feeling, for just appearing with the "delivery" took an untold amount of courage.

As for the Valentines themselves, they were generally four liners that stressed the mine-thine theme. The pictures were more fun than the words at that age, and the envelopes were . . . well, you wouldn't believe what

Population in State Increases

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Figures compiled by the U.S. Bureau of the Census indicate Arkansas' population has risen almost 200,000 persons in the eight years since the official 1960 census.

The "provisional" estimate, made as of July 1, 1968, shows Arkansas with a civilian population of 1,986,000. The 1960 figure was 1,786,272.

The national population increase was 11.5 per cent, compared to Arkansas' rise of 11.2 per cent. Arkansas and eight other states were ranked as registering increases of 8 to 11.9 per cent. Twenty-three states were ranked below that group in increase percentage and 18 were ranked above.

Trucker Killed in Accident

Senic River Bill Is Out

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill to establish a scenic rivers system was reported out without recommendation Thursday by the Senate Committee on Conservation and Natural Resources.

The bill by Sen. Oscar Alford of Little Rock would form a system to include the Buffalo, Mulberry, Kings and Eleven Point rivers and Piney Creek.

kids could do with a name like mine (come to think of it, it still presents a challenge to a lot of adults) which they had only heard when the teacher called the roll.

Willard PUTT (the way he always pronounced PUT) me on Cloud 9 by just appearing at my door that afternoon. I doubt if he ever knew how thrilled I was, for, believe it or not, sometimes even I was shy. Whatever happened to him?

His dad was a railroad man who was transferred the next year clear out of the country to Oklahoma. Naturally, the family went, too, thus ending a beautiful romance.

Allies Ignore Start of Viet Cong Ceasefire

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces ignored the start of a Viet Cong cease-fire today and continued air strikes and 60 offensive operations of battalion size or larger.

The enemy stand-down for Tet, the lunar new year holiday that begins Monday, is scheduled to last until Feb. 22. A South Vietnamese government source said Saigon would announce a short allied truce for Monday.

But he said the government would not announce details of the cease-fire until 11 p.m. Saigon time (10 a.m. EST), because it feared the enemy might break their own cease-fire pledge as they did last year, when they hit Saigon and 120 towns and cities in their biggest offensive of the war.

U.S. intelligence sources said three major North Vietnamese divisions, the 1st, 7th and 9th, are in border areas near Cambodia and not in position right now to attack Saigon. They said elements of the North Vietnamese 5th Division do pose a threat in War Zone D, about 30 miles north of the capital.

"They're not in position to launch a significant attack on Saigon right now," said one source, "but that certainly doesn't preclude isolated terrorist attacks and small-scale assaults."

In Bien Hoa province east of Saigon, a man wearing the robes of a Buddhist monk poured gasoline over himself, lighted a match and burned to death, South Vietnamese authorities reported.

They said the incident occurred in front of a pagoda. No notes were found and no reason was determined for the action.

As the Viet Cong truce began some terrorist activity was reported but there was no major ground fighting.

Two terrorists in black pajamas killed a hamlet chief and a Vietnamese militiaman in a hamlet near Bong Son, 280 miles northeast of Saigon.

U.S. B52 bombers kept up their attacks along an arc north of Saigon aimed to prevent enemy troops from massing for an offensive. Since noon Friday 36 bombers dropped 1,080 tons of explosives on suspected enemy bases, troop concentrations and bunker complexes.

Headquarters announced the loss of a helicopter and a light observation plane over South Vietnam, raising to 2,368 the number of choppers and to 2,551 the number of fixed wing aircraft lost in the eight-year war.

The plane was shot down Wednesday south of Da Nang, killing one crewman and wounding another. The helicopter was downed Thursday in the Mekong Delta, and its two crewmen were wounded.

President Nguyen Van Thieu called for more military victories today so that South Vietnam will be able to effectively deal with the Communists at the Paris peace talks.

Thieu made the remark in one of series of holiday visits to military units. He recalled last year's Tet offensive.

In Paris, where the peace talks are stalled, the negotiators' attention was focused on the Feb. 28 visit of President

Defense Says Sirhan Did Kill Kennedy

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the traumatic moment after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot, a young busboy cradled the senator's bloody head in his arms, whispered encouragement and placed a rosary in his hands.

"I said the first thing that came to my mind," Juan Romero said Friday to the jury that is trying Sirhan Bishara Sirhan for Kennedy's death. "I said, 'Come on Senator, you can make it.' Then his head dropped back."

Emile Zola Berman, one of Sirhan's three defenders, said in his opening statement that "there is no doubt . . . that he (Sirhan) did, in fact, fire the shot that killed Sen. Kennedy." But, Berman said, the defense will present psychiatric testimony that "at the actual moment of the shooting he was out of contact with reality, in a trance."

The state is trying to prove Sirhan killed Kennedy, June 5, 1968 with malice and premeditation—the elements of first degree murder. The defense hopes to show the killing was impulsive, without premeditation or malice. As Berman put it, "totally a product of a sick, obsessed mind and personality."

The pale, 24-year-old Jordanian rose from his chair in protest as Berman described him thus. He was obviously agitated, murmuring "No, no." A court inspector leaned over the chair of defense investigator Michael McCowan and said, "Talk to him, Mike."

McCowan pushed Sirhan back into his chair and whispered to him for several minutes. There were no further incidents and Sirhan smiled broadly a number of times during the day.

The first day's testimony also revealed that a last minute change in plans brought Kennedy to his deadly encounter with Sirhan—in a pantry off the Ambassador Hotel ballroom where the senator had just claimed victory in California's presidential primary.

Romero had gone to the ballroom to hear Kennedy speak and preceded him to the pantry area. Shortly after midnight Romero saw someone coming toward Kennedy.

"I thought it was a person who couldn't wait to shake his hand," Romero said with his heavy Spanish accent. "I seen the guy put a hand at the senator's head. And then I saw a gun."

"Then I saw Sen. Kennedy stretched out in front of me. I leaned down and picked up his head."

On cross-examination, defense attorney Russell E. Parsons asked if Kennedy—who died 25 hours later—said anything.

"He said, 'Is everybody all right? Is everybody okay?'" Romero answered.

Romero was asked if the man who did the shooting was in the room. He shook his head. Sirhan was asked to stand.

"I don't believe that's him," Romero said.

Even Sirhan smiled.

TV NOTEBOOK

NEW YORK—(NEA)—There's hope for John Davidson yet.

The dimpled, talented young man has spent his entire professional career being typed as wholesome, personable, dimpled and very talented. Now, at last, he is playing a role with a touch of larceny in him.

John, presently doing one of the best night club acts at the prestigious Persian Room of New York's Plaza Hotel, is making his straight TV acting debut on Feb. 27 on NBC-TV's Daniel Boone. I play the guy who falls in love with the girl," he says. "but he does something illegal. There's a little mischief in him."

After making two Disney movies, in which he played boy-next-door types, John has done the Boone as an "audition."

"We want to get the film for screen test purposes," he said. "Universal is interested in a multipicture deal. It's all leading to a TV series. That's my aim."

A Broadway musical has been written for him called "Plato's Republic" and is about a college that secedes from the Union.

John recently married a pretty Jackie Miller, former member of the New Christy Minstrels.

He doesn't think his marriage will have an adverse effect on his fans, because "if anything there is a great respect for a happily married man."

"Now," he said, "I can sing love songs and believe them. Knowing the marriage is right has given me added confidence. For the first time I'm able to exploit my emotions."

Steve Lawrence says the trouble with the generation gap is that it isn't large enough. If you agree with him, and a lot do, don't let it deter you from watching a new ABC-TV series. Barbra's Kid Sister Trills

By JOAN CROSBY
NEA Entertainment Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—She's pretty, quiet and introspective, just turned 18, and has a name that means absolutely nothing in show business.

But she has a half-million dollars' worth of offers: two major companies are investigating the possibility of a TV special starring her, and she is already the innocent victim in a lawsuit.

Roslyn Kind is a singer. Her first RCA Victor album, "Give Me You," has just been released.

After five one-night appearances, all in Connecticut, comprising her entire professional career, Roslyn made her national debut on The Ed Sullivan Show.

SHE ALSO HAS A HALF-SISTER NAMED BARBRA STREISAND.

Roslyn's manager, Ted Brooks (who handled Barbra for six years), took her to Sullivan. Ed said he would put her on the show whenever they felt she was ready. That was nine months ago.

"But I wasn't ready then," she says. Then, with RCA putting on a big push to herald the release of her record, the Hollywood Palace got the impression it could book her debut.

"It was a misunderstanding," Roslyn says, "and a lack of communication."

Sullivan got her debut, promised months earlier, and the Palace got mad enough to sue.

And that brings us to big sister. Has she heard from Barbra since she began her career?

"She's been so busy and I have been, too, that we just haven't been in touch," Roslyn says, picking her words carefully.

"Be honest," prompts her press agent. She says, "The answer is no."

When Barbra was 15 months old, her father died, leaving Mrs. Streisand with a baby and an 8-year-old son, Sheldon. (He is now president of his own advertising agency in New York.) Mrs. Streisand remarried and, eight years after Barbra's birth, Roslyn was born.

"My mother had good timing," Roslyn smiles.

She doesn't know her sister too well. "I was only 8 when she left home," she says. But during the run of "Funny Girl," stage-struck Roslyn was always hanging around the theater.

"I don't know how many times I saw the show, but it was well over 40."

Both girls have inherited their vocal chords from their mother. "She could have been an opera singer, with training," Roslyn says.

SISTER SINGERS Barbra Streisand, left, and Roslyn Kind have one thing in common their mother—but that's about it.

Does she sing like Barbra? "Well, I feel a song the way she does, and our phrasing is similar. But I don't sing in the same bag. My voice is more powerful and I sing in a lower range."

She gives Ted Brooks credit for what she has learned. He had given up being a manager.

"I had built quite a few people, only to have them walk away from me when they got big," he says. "But in Roslyn I found a girl who wanted someone to care for her. When I first heard her sing I said, 'Go home and thank the Man upstairs. You have a career of your own.'"

"When she gets to be a star, I hope she is still as pretty inside as she is today."

It was last April when Roslyn went to RCA Victor for an audition. She sang live to taped music, then made a recording so her voice qualities on a disc could be studied.

"If I were not Barbra's sister," she admits, "it would have taken longer for the outer doors to open. But at RCA only one man knew who I was, and he didn't tell the board until after they decided to sign me."

She signed in May and has been working on the album since.

Like her sister, Roslyn also wants to act and do a Broadway musical.

Her acting experience has been confined to living rooms. "When I was in school," she smiles, "they used to run a movie on a local station every night of the week. I would watch and by the end of the week I knew all the dialogue. Then I would act out the film."

SHE'S GETTING PUBLICITY BECAUSE SHE IS BARBRA'S SISTER, AND SHE KNOWS IT.

"Things are happening much faster for me than they would be if I had no connection with Barbra," she says. "But it's so hard for me to believe that it's really happening that I can't judge the proportions."

What about the loss of privacy that results from public notice?

"If that's part of being a superstar, I'll accept it. I'm more or less a loner anyway. I'm a TV watcher, and that's done at home, so that couldn't be affected. I like movies, but you see them in the dark."

SAVED at the 11th hour, this young victim of the Nigerian civil war was found by a UNICEF team. With his ribs showing and muscles wasted away by starvation, the Biafran youngster is one of a fortunate few who can be nursed back to health. Thousands have perished and death threatens many more before a settlement is reached in the secessionist struggle.

Youth Beat

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

LAST LAUGH THAT HURTS: So called "humor magazines" are dying off in epidemic proportions. Teens unaware of once important "College Humor" as a national youth publication. Many universities, colleges and high schools have published their own "in" humor magazines and newspapers with heady emphasis on local people and subject matter. These, too, are drying up. Some blame lack of advertiser interest and rising costs as principal reason for the general demise. Closer to the truth is the basic problem of editorial appeal. Teen- and college-age humor is tough to pull off in print. Much of it is automatically off-limits in a school endorsed publication. Sex is much more of an open matter and any "restricted" expression pales in its impact against the pornography and near pornography in many national publications and the "underground" press. Some psychologists claim that sex and aggression are both expressed more directly than ever before on a "like it is right here" basis. No need, they say, to have it spelled out in joke-cartoon form. Hurry, though, to add that young people today do have a sense of humor about their world generally (including politics), but the one-to-one "farmer's daughter" era is really gapped of the highest magnitude. Meanwhile, ethnic and racial pressure groups keep trying to hush the free whispering, wheeling "underground." Here is a large part of the answer to humor in print. Free speech shouldn't be "intimidated" in the humor department any more than in/on political matters. Small wonder humor magazines fold. They don't print it "like it is." Teens of all race and color carry on their own whisperings and laugh as raucously and cruelly as their parents and grandparents before them. Repression anyone?

GONORRHEA NOW EPIDEMIC 1.4 million cases last year, 378,500 over number noted in 1962. The figures are based on a nationwide survey of more than 130,000 physicians. The actual incidence is much higher.

TEEN TRAVEL BAN: Pressure being applied to state and federal officials to close Mexican border to travel by minors. Proposals aimed at slowing down narcotics traffic; ask that teens be prevented from entering Mexico unless accompanied by parents "or other responsible adults."

CHRYSLER MINI WITH MAXI MILL: Chrysler is mixing mini size with maxi power. Success with the "Sveiger" (a Dart with 340-cubic-inch, four barrel carburetor engine) helped corporate officials make the decision to go full speed ahead on a "smaller car." Next year's Dodge and Plymouth sports cars will be designed to take a 400-cubic-inch engine, tops in the field.

REVERSAL OF TEACHER ROLE: "Social students" pitching the premise that in matters of protest, the teachers are the students and the students are the teachers. Parents are lumped with those being indoctrinated with "social reality" by the young protest people. This is the party line of the student-activist segment of young America. Trial by time will tell whether or not the theory involved has proved to be a piper effort measured on the scale of "like it really is, man."

Longer Flights Need Women

BERLIN (AP) — Astronaut Frank Borman smilingly said Wednesday that when space trips get longer "it may be the time for lady astronauts to be included."

"My wife would hasten to add," Borman grinned, "married couples, of course."

But when pressed by a pretty blonde reporter why the United States had no women astronauts, Borman turned serious and said he could not understand why a woman would want to fly in space.

"It is a hostile environment," the 40-year-old Air Force colonel said. "We do not have lady tank commanders or (aircraft) carrier pilots. Why in space?" Borman added that women played a big role in the U.S. space program. He identified the engineer who computed the trajectory that carried Apollo 8 back from the moon as a 22-year-old woman.

Borman leaves West Berlin for Rome today to continue his eight-nation tour of Europe.

Come let us go into the House of the Lord

Says Come

"On My Honor"

The Boy Scouts of America have another anniversary February 7. What a blessing the Scout organization has been to countless youths of America and to all the world. Every Scout in every troop is a reverent, patriotic individual who is committed to live and work for God and Country. They are taught religious obligations by spiritual teachers, Scout leaders and by their parents. When a Scout recites, "On My Honor," he means it. When he says, "I Will Do My Best To Build, Serve and Achieve," he believes it. Just let him quote, "I Will Do All To The Glory of God," and all of us want to sponsor his troop. Every boy who becomes a Scout, grows to be a better man. Encourage every boy to join a troop during their 59th Anniversary February 7-13, 1969.

You In The Church
The Church Is You
... form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader, and attend services regularly.

These businessmen listed below urge everyone to get behind the churches. They alone provide a solution to the problems facing us.

Whip's Job Is No Snap

 By NOEL GROVE
 NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (N E A) — After witnessing the stir created by Edward Kennedy's election to the majority whip post recently, a large segment of Americans must be puzzled that his new activities do not continue to make headlines.

They may wait a long time, say Senate veterans, who point out that the real success of a whip may be measured more by what is not seen than by what is.

"One of the secrets of true leadership in this body," says one, "is not taking credit for legislation that is passed. You create allies that way, for future battles."

The general lack of public knowledge about the new title Sen. Kennedy holds is best illustrated by the vagueness of the congratulatory telegrams after he was elevated to the post by his party colleagues.

"A lot of them could be characterized as saying something like 'Dear Ted, congratulations on your victory, whatever it was,'" said Dick Drayne, Sen. Kennedy's press assistant.

As government terms go, majority whip is not exactly a household word. To the millions of Americans absorbed by Kennedy-watching and the heir-apparent theory, the reaction must have been like seeing Sir Lancelot named assistant sword-slasher in Camelot.

The whip job is more important than that. But the analogy does have some relevance. Sword-sharpening, and wielding, are not outside the young Massachusetts senator's new responsibilities.

The job is easily defined, though it grows complicated in its application. The whip counts noses preparatory to

AN IMPORTANT but little publicized role in national law-making is played by the Senate whip, a post now held by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. It is the whip's job to ride herd on his party's legislators and act as a Senate floor watchdog guarding against surprise moves by the opposition.

Senate votes. He helps line up votes in accordance with the majority, or Democratic party's stand on the issue at stake and is expected to make sure they all show up for the roll call and vote. Hence the term "whip."

He also shares the job of Senate floor watchdog for his party, to guard against surprise moves by the opposition. First-time gallery visitors continue to be amazed at the sparse number of lawmakers on the floor while a speaker drones on with the nation's business. But it's a safe bet that one of the few present are either Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, Majority Whip Edward Kennedy or the No. 3 Senate Democrat, Policy Committee Secretary Robert C. Byrd of Virginia.

 Off the floor the whip helps in the strategy of planning the flow of legislation to the floor. Bills submitted without reading the mood and rhythm of the Senate may be committing legislative suicide.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Properly Fitted Caps Are Like Natural Teeth

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: Is there any chance for food or infection getting under caps? And could the natural teeth under them go bad without my knowing it? Can caps ever be taken off and cleaned and then put back? —Mrs. Lillian T.

ANSWER: If caps are made to accurately reproduce the shapes and contours of your natural teeth, and if they fit properly at the gum line, they are not likely to become food traps or cause gum infections; at least no more than occurs around natural teeth.

As for capped teeth "going bad," the exact opposite is true. Caps cover the entire crowns of natural teeth and thus strengthen them and prevent decay.

It's possible for decay to occur around the necks of capped teeth but the rate of decay should not be higher than occurs around the necks of natural teeth.

Multiple caps, or splints as they are called, are sometimes initially cemented with "temporary" cement to allow removal some weeks later for inspection and adjustments before final and permanent cementation. But single caps, especially porcelain caps, are usually permanently cemented and can't be removed without destroying them.

Anyway, it's not necessary to remove caps in order to clean them. That's one of the advantages of fixed (permanent) dental appliances, such as caps and bridges: You brush them, clean them and use them just as you do your natural teeth.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE: I have a problem. My dentist suggested that I use an electric toothbrush because of my gum problem. My sister has a similar gum problem and her dentist suggested that she stay away from an electric brush and just brush her teeth gently. Who is right?

ANSWER: Both dentists may be right since both gum problems, yours and your sister's, may be quite different in origin and require different treatment. When used properly an

There is little in the way of technique or strategy that can be "learned" in the whip job itself, however, observers say. "The personality of the man determines his style as a whip," as one put it.

Lyndon Johnson was a gregarious, cajoling, sometimes arm-twisting whip who kept in almost-constant touch with his colleagues. Hubert Humphrey was a firebrand of rhetoric and exuberance who, as one acquaintance put it, "could rebound from a defeat with no hard feelings, and who never identified people with causes."

Russell Long, Kennedy's predecessor, is credited with being a good debater, but sometimes abrasive and erratic. "Russell had the bad habit of sometimes getting personal in the heat of battle," said a Democratic colleague, "and though that may serve your immediate purpose, people don't forget things like that easily."

In Kennedy's favor as a Senate vote-getter, observers claim, are his personal charm and his brief but impressive senatorial record.

There is even talk within the Senate that Kennedy may have more of a voice in forming legislation, normally not one of the prescribed duties of a whip. With Mansfield's strength considered more in foreign affairs than domestic matters, there is speculation that Kennedy may have great Senate Democratic influence on initiating domestic legislation.

That doesn't mean there will be Kennedy bills and Mansfield bills, however, in keeping with the "never take credit" theory of leadership. The Senate is still, as one observer put it, "made up of 100 guys with superegos, and most of them need to be fed."

One of the modern wonder bids is the "negative" double. This is a double of an overall for take-out instead of business. We use the bid ourselves but are very careful with it when our partner has opened a minor, the overall is in the other minor, and we don't have both majors.

Prof. John McGervey of Western Reserve University in Cleveland would be one of our really great bridge players if he hadn't chosen to devote his life to a career in mathematics. He is still mighty good and a very tough competitor.

His two-club overall came in an international match point game when his side was trailing and against opponents who go all out for negative doubles. Sure enough, North did make a negative double. John's partner co-operated with Operation Monkey Wrench by raising to three clubs. South bid three hearts. We have no criticism of this bid. The negative double asks for a major suit and South had a sound opening with good distribution and four hearts.

North felt that he was in a trap but was afraid to make matters worse by bidding and it was up to South to play the hand.

John led a club. Dummy's ace won and the spade finesse lost to John's king. A second club was ruffed by declarer who led a diamond to dummy's queen and East's ace. Back came a third club and South decided to jettison his eight of spades. John overtook and led a fourth club. Dummy

Lions Prove Bobcats No Problem

By RANDY WRIGHT
Star Sports Writer

The Hope Bobcats, hurt by numerous turnovers, lost a hard-fought 4 AA Western Conference battle last night at the hands of the Texarkana-Washington Lions by the score of 54-51. In the first game, the Hope "B" team exploded in the second half and downed the Lion's junior varsity 53-39.

The "B" Lizards saw an early nine point lead at the half dwindle to two at the end of three quarters. Then the "B" Lizards took control of the game and lead until the final buzzer. Leading the attack for the "B" Lizards were Thomas Norvel and sophomore Parker Powell with their hot outside shooting, scoring 20 and 17 points respectively. Also helping contribute to the team's win were Johnny Johnson with 8 points, scrappy James Simmons with 5 points, Charles Rateliff with 1 point, and Gary McRoy with 2 points.

In the concluding game of the night, the Bobcats suffered their seventh loss in conference play. Trailing early by 5-0, the Cats came back to lead for their only lead of the night by 9-8. Then, the home-team Lions pulled ahead for good, and led 19-12 at the end of the first quarter.

In the second quarter, the Bobcats fell behind late in the quarter by 31-16, but pulled up to win with 10 points, 32-22 by the end of the first half.

All through the third quarter the Cats were unable to dent Texarkana-Washington's lead, and trailed 38-28 at the end of three segments.

Relying on a stingy defense in the 4th quarter, the Bobcats pulled within 3 points late in the quarter, but then were unable to pull any closer and thus lost their seventh conference game by the score of 54-51.

Tomorrow night the Bobcats and "B" team travel to Arkadelphia to face the ever-tough Arkadelphia Badgers in another 4-AA Western Conference battle. The "B" team will begin at 6:30 followed by the Bobcat game.

Hazards in Bowling

Bowling, naturally, is not as dangerous as football or baseball, although there are some hazards involved. We have run into cases of people pinching fingers or thumbs, or dropping the ball onto their toes.

We therefore recommend certain ways of picking the ball up—put a hand on each side of it and make sure they have that ball in their hands.

A few hazards that have been created—I know Billy Hartwick pulled a thumb, and how he did this I don't know—but he was trying to create a top-spin on his ball one week and it caused him to pull a string for just about a week he was out. But he pulled a string on his thumb and he couldn't even pick up the ball after that.

There are a few hazards involved in our game which are created and one of the older questions that is asked is: do you have your right hand insured? Jokingly I'll say lots of times. Lloyd's of London insured it for $100,000, because it is a big thing for us if something happens. Then, of course, we'd either have to learn to bowl left-handed or quit.

Getting back to practice, I have found, and Bill Bunetta, Dick Weber and quite a few of the other pros have found, that a lot of amateurs get warmed up for a tournament by bowling maybe five or six games the night before they're ready to start that tournament. That is not the way to do it. We recommend that you take the six to 10 games that you bowl in one day, and extend them over a 10-day period, and bowl one game a day.

If you could only bowl one game in the 10 days, you'd be better off—you'd get better results than if you bowled them all in one day, because it's a matter of getting yourself, your body and your mind, accustomed to doing the same thing every time.

THE REV. Bob Richards conducts Bible class in La Verne, Calif., Church of the Brethren, where he is ordained minister. At right is trail he will follow on cross-country jogging and cycling tour he will make to promote physical fitness.

Ira Berkow

NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The first thing that strikes you when the Rev. Bob Richards walks into the office is that, verily, he does walk. He does not run through the halls; he does not hurdle desks and he does not pole vault up through the window. He simply walks in, with a bounce to be sure, but walking nonetheless.

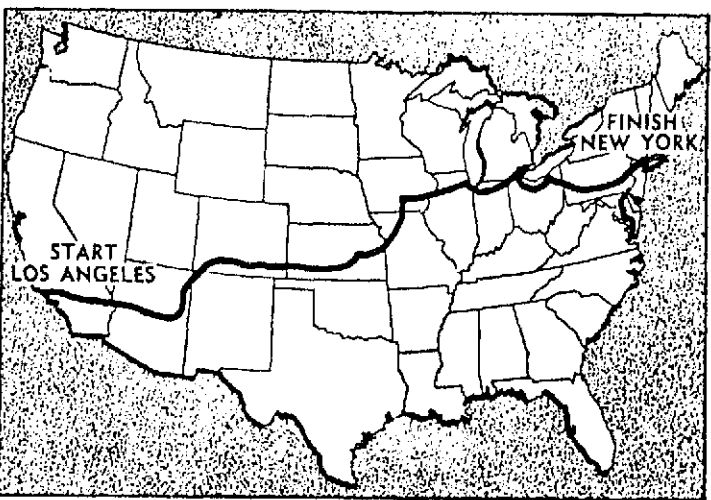

It is enough to destroy one's image of the greatest health crusader since Popeye.

"I am very disappointed," he said, pulling up a chair and restraining himself from doing a handstand on it. "I had so many appointments today that I was unable to do my daily exercises." And what are they? "Running up the 17 flights of stairs of the Plaza Hotel, four times."

Is this a sign that the two-time Olympic gold medal pole vaulting champion (1952 and 1956) and Wheaties' champion of breakfasts is slowing up? After all, he is 43 years old now.

"I can still vault over 15 feet with a metal pole," he said, "and I'll bet $10,000 that none of the moderns, not Bob Seagren, not any of them, can do that. And I can still kick a football 65 yards and throw one 70 yards."

"You know, I wanted to try out for an American Football League team in 1960. The Wheaties people like to die. They put the kibosh to the idea. They thought I would lose my teeth—and that's about all I have left."

Then he grinned his famous toothy grin—the one you always see on the Wheaties television commercials—and he rubbed his hand over his thinning, but still curly, hair. He looked at Murray Olderman, NEA executive editor, and, with blue eyes looking somewhat sad under hooded eye lids, said: "Gee, Murray, how do you keep your hair so thick?"

"Clean living," said Olderman.

And the Rev. Richards broke up. For everyone knows that he (not Olderman) is impeccably above suspicion, like Caesar's wife.

The Rev. Richards was in New York City to promote a venture which, on the surface, seems, as his son Bobby said, "kooky." And, even upon deep investigation, it would be hard to come up with a more apt word.

A 2 1/2-month, 3,300-mile trip from Los Angeles to New York is planned. From June to August Richards will jog about five to 10 miles a day, then cycle some 60 miles more. His purpose is to dramatize the need and the enjoyment of physical fitness. He is a firm believer that more Americans would feel better physically and mentally if they did more exercise.

Richards, an ordained minister, is the personification of physical fitness. He stands 5-10, weighs 185 pounds and stands erect, chest out, stomach in, breathes from the diaphragm and all that. When he plays golf he runs to his ball after every stroke, and is therefore hard pressed for caddies.

The National Jogging Association, bicycle clubs all over the country and the Wheaties people are sponsoring the cross-country fling.

"What I don't want," he said, "is for people to think this is a nutty thing. And I don't want people going out and running 20 miles the first day. They'd be dying in the streets, and that would kill our purpose. Exercise should be fun and done intelligently."

"I'm going to have fun. I won't overexert myself. I'll be with my family and I'll dance at night. It'll be like a vacation. I also plan to write a book and make a movie along the way."

"And what a great opportunity to see America. I'm going to visit Indian reservations, see the mountains of Colorado, the amber waves of grain."

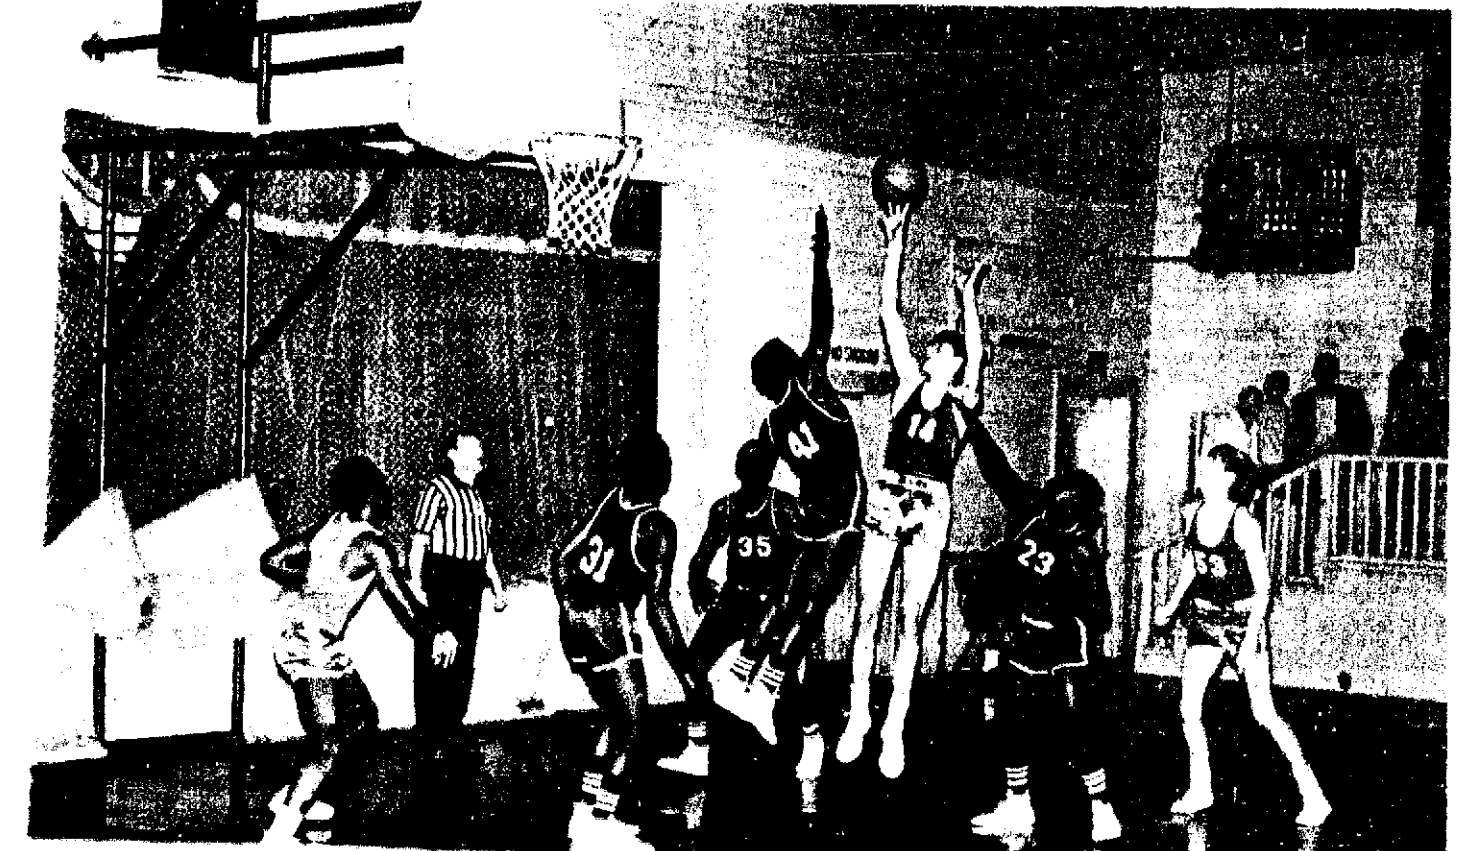

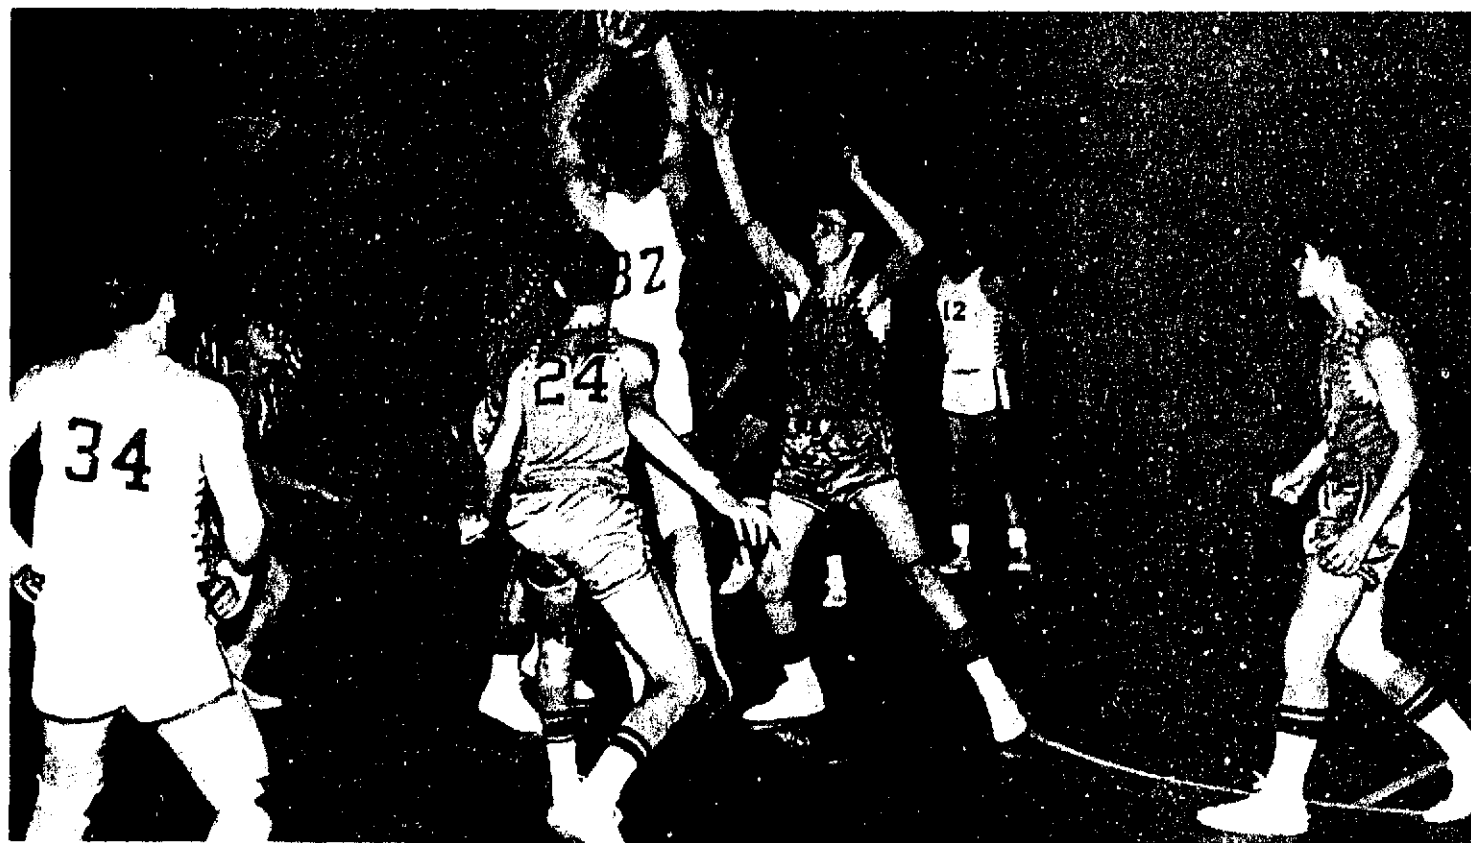

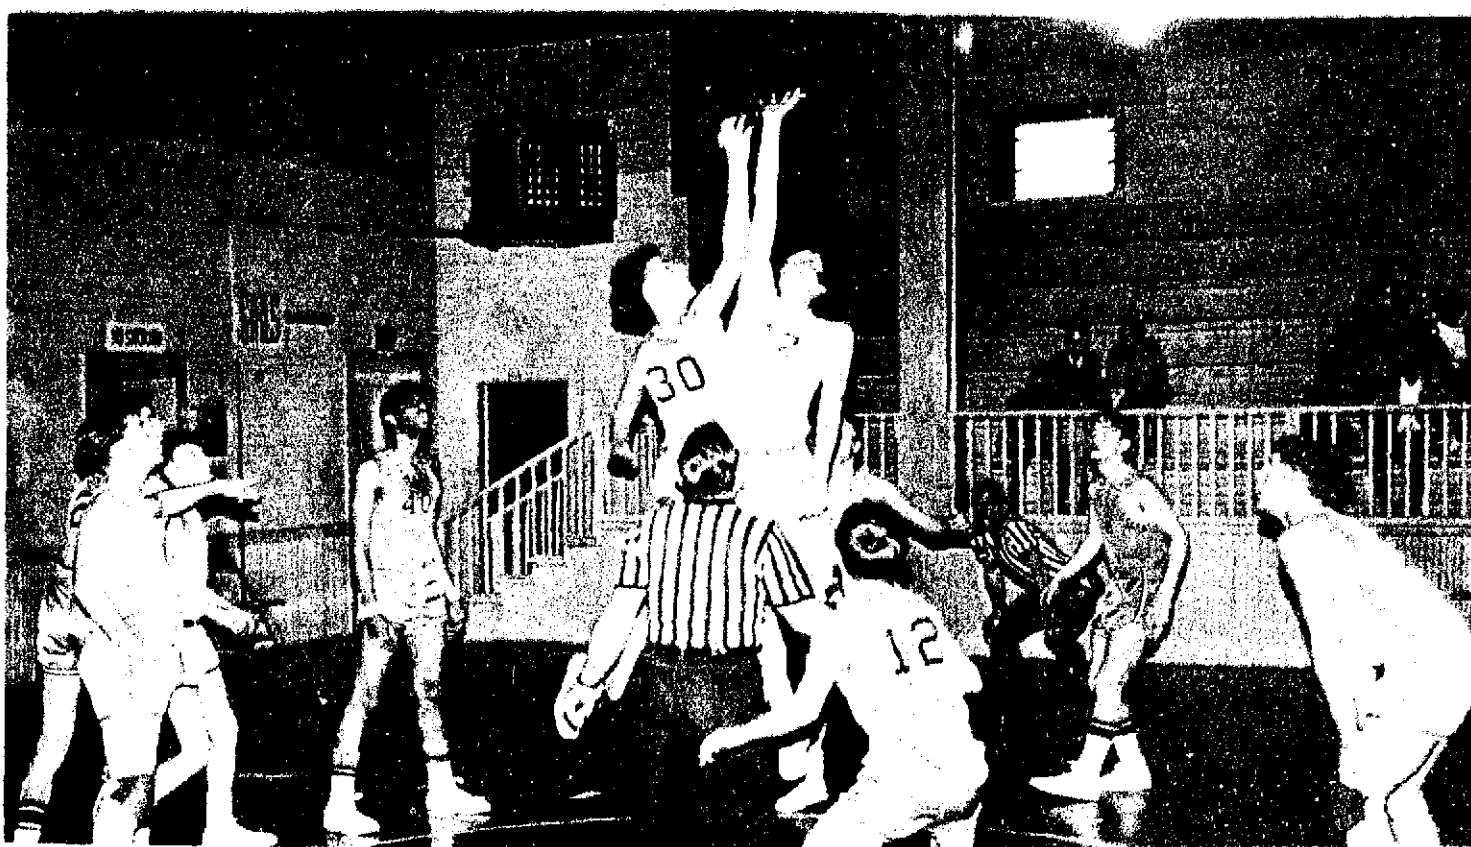

"The only thing I worry about is the heat. A problem could develop with chafing."

Shorts in Living Color

Now the well-dressed man can be fashionable all the way down to the skin. A maker of men's unmentionables is introducing a line of shorts, T-shirts and athletic shirts in eight high-fashion colors.

The fact that the public doesn't know what goes on underneath the Italian silk is no excuse for underwear that is dull, lifeless and unromantic, urges the company's marketing manager. A man's underwear can now reflect his personality, he says. Fire Red, for example, should be perfect for dynamic, aggressive types.

No Poverty

Although poverty may be wide spread in the U.S., as many critics contend, it hasn't struck government yet. According to the Tax Foundation, Inc., federal, state and local governments will collect an equivalent of $3,927 from each American family in 1969.

It's significant to note that this average cost is approximately $600 more than the federal government says is necessary to move a family of four above the poverty level. — Dallas (Tex.) Morning News

Fog Festival Hoping for Bad Weather

OCEAN SHORES, Wash. (AP) — It's about time for the second annual February Fog Festival and Paul Cornwell and his crew are hoping the sun doesn't come out and spoil everything.

"The weather here is looking very bad indeed," Cornwell reports with downright satisfaction. "We are confident the weather for the Fog Festival will be just beautiful" — meaning lousy to most folks.

Cornwell, known around this southwest Washington Pacific resort as "Leakyboot," dreamed up the festival idea with a few others to live up to a month normally about as exciting as wet sand.

The memory of last year's first annual FFF still rankles because, as Cornwell recalls, "Ocean Shores had a fearsome week of fine, clear weather."

What is a February Fog Festival? Well, it's anything from shooting fish in a rain barrel, a possible competitive event this year, to the planned "First Annual Kick-the-Can Super Bowl."

The main event for the FFF on Feb. 22-23, of course, will be the annual North American Mid-Winter wading championships on Sunday.

That's a "soggy socks spectacular," Cornwell explains, "which sends intrepid competitors dashing 100 yards into the Pacific Ocean surf, around a pole and back, through waves up to seven feet high."

Last year 19 contestants assaulted the briny in this event, Cornwell says, and if they tended to turn a bit blue they knew they would be warmed by streams of hot water from an "Official contest reheater" at the finish.

"It's absolutely breath-taking," says one old-timer.

Israeli Jets Hit Guerrillas Inside Jordan

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two Israeli jet fighters struck a suspected Arab guerrilla pocket inside Jordan today, the Israeli army announced.

Israeli ground troops backed up the 25-minute air assault with firing across the border. A spokesman said the guerrillas at the Qatuf outpost, inside Jordan just south of the Sea of Galilee, had fired bazookas and small arms at an army patrol.

Jordan reported two attacks by Israeli jets, one lasting 30 minutes and another an hour later. A spokesman said napalm bombs were dropped but Jordanian forces suffered no losses.

Another Israeli patrol came under light fire as it moved down a street Thursday night in the occupied town of Hebron, south of Jerusalem. The patrol returned the fire.

The army said there were no Israeli casualties in either incident. Israel's second largest political group, the Gahal party, voted early today to remain in the coalition government headed by Premier Levi Eshkol, ending three days of political uncertainty.

The Gahal party was angered by Eshkol's statement in an interview with Newsweek magazine that his government was willing to give up much of the territory seized in the 1967 war. The Gahalites want Israel to keep all of the occupied areas.

Things Quiet for Nixon's Neighbors

By STRATTON L. DOUTHAT

Associated Press Writer

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) —

There's been a distinct absence of door-to-door peddlers at John Hardy's house since President Nixon moved in across the street.

Since the winter White House was established on the coconut palm-shrouded street, Bay Lane has been off limits for everybody but residents and their visitors.

Secret Service agents man a blockade at the head of the road 24 hours a day and make certain nobody wanders in. Residents must show their identification each time they pass.

"It can be annoying to be stopped when you're in a hurry," says Hardy, "but the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages."

"For instance," added Hardy, a British steamship agent, "it's fascinating to watch the President come and go. There are no itinerant salesmen and the security here is great."

Bay Lane is on Key Biscayne, an island on Biscayne Bay about four miles from downtown Miami. Like many other upper class residential areas, it has its share of burglaries. But not any more, with the security men on hand.

The President owns four homes and leases another on the Bay Side of the block-long, dead-end road. His complex is well hidden behind a 15-foot high hedge.

Nixon's not much of a yard man, says Hardy. Whenever he's outside, he usually walks on the beach or wades in the surf.

Boaters must stay at least 500 yards away from the President's beach and aircraft are forbidden to fly low over his part of the island.

Farmer Tells Why He Took Post

NEW YORK (AP) — James

Farmer said Thursday night he accepted the post of assistant secretary of health, education and welfare because "I haven't given up the belief that it is possible to make the establishment work on behalf of the poor and the blacks."

"At least I must try," he said in a speech at the Brooklyn College Student Center.

The former chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, who ran unsuccessfully as a Republican for a Brooklyn congressional seat last November, said of President Richard M. Nixon, "I've said some very mean things about him. But he's the only president we have. If he fails, then we all fail."

Farmer, a Negro, supported Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee, against Nixon, who recently admitted to having few "friends" among blacks.

Peru Frees U.S. Fishing Vessel

By JOE MCGOWAN JR.

Associated Press Writer

LIMA, Peru (AP) — The Peruvian government has released an American tuna boat captured in the Pacific Friday, but Washington sources said the incident could precipitate a cutoff of U.S. aid to Peru.

The American vessel, Mariner, was captured by a Peruvian navy gunboat which attacked a small fishing fleet more than 23 miles off the Peruvian coast. The skipper of another vessel reported his boat was peppered with machine gun fire before the gunboat was driven off.

No injuries were reported in the attack, which U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers called "wholly unjustified."

Peru's ambassador to the United States, Fernando Berckemeyer, said the American boats were operating in Peruvian waters without licenses. Peru claims territorial jurisdiction 200 miles out to sea, but the United States considers any boat in international waters if it is more than 12 miles off the coast.

The Peruvian Naval Ministry said Friday the Mariner was released at the port of Talara after the skipper, Joseph Lewis of San Diego, Calif., paid an unspecified fine.

Skipper John Verissimo of the San Juan, one of the American fishing boats, said the Peruvian gunboat put five men aboard the Mariner.

"Then they came after us," Verissimo said in a radio-telephone interview. "They fired more than 50 shots at us. They tried to board us from the stern, but I outmaneuvered them."

The owner of both the San Juan and the Mariner, Ed Gann of San Diego, said he received reports that two other U.S. fishing boats went to the San Juan's rescue.

"They figured the only way to help the San Juan would be to ram the patrol boat," Gann said. "Then the patrol boat turned and ran."

August Felano, manager of the North American Association of Tuna Fishermen, said it was the second time this year that an American fishing boat had been fired on by Peru and the 75th time since 1961 that a U.S. fishing boat has been seized by a South American country.

The State Department has not said whether the law would be invoked.

Americans Still Want Secret Talks

PARIS (AP) — Despite a public rebuff from the North Vietnamese, American peace negotiators in Paris indicate they are still hopeful the Vietnam talks will soon enter a phase of secret contacts.

After a fruitless six-hour session Thursday, U.S. chief negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge told newsmen: "I don't expect much to come out of these public meetings."

Asked about a Communist report that at least one secret contact took place on American initiative last week, U.S. delegation spokesman William Jordan grinned and repeated his longstanding rule never to comment on secret talks.

He urged newsmen not to insist on detailed replies to all their questions "to permit the art of quiet diplomacy to work its way." Many of the newsmen felt this remark and his grin constituted an unspoken confirmation of the report.

Nguyen Thanh Le, spokesman for the Hanoi delegation, accused the Americans of deliberately "spreading rumors of private meetings like straws in the wind." If the United States has anything it wants to discuss, he added, it can do so at the weekly formal conference sessions.

The Thursday meetings have become a regular Thursday propaganda battle at which the opposing sides bombard each other with invective and restate their entrenched positions. The fourth such session Thursday was no exception.

Lodge said he was "disappointed but not disheartened" by the Hanoi-NLF attitude.

The Years Usually End Many a Budding St. Valentine Day Romance

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Yesterday was Valentine's Day, a time for hearts and flowers... and maybe some nostalgia. Do you remember the first time a boy gave you a Valentine? I don't, but I do remember the first time I got one delivered personally to my house because I'd missed Valentine's Day at school.

It was almost worth being sick in bed with a stomach ache from eating some gosh-awful combination of foods that no one but I would think of mixing.

Next to Christmas, Valentine's Day was best of all the holidays, I thought. For days before the event, some of the girls in the class spent recess periods putting crepe paper, hearts and arrows (no one ever tried to make a cupid as that was too hard) on the biggest pasteboard box that could be found. The teacher always did most of the work, but she was smart enough to make the kids think they were doing the "decorating."

Then, on February 14th the box was opened in the afternoon, and the rest of the day was lost in boys' blushes and girls' giggles and paper Valentines 10-for-a-dime. Occasionally, some big spender put 10 or 15 cents into the purchase of a single Valentine that folded back to make a ruffled heart.

The details surrounding the Valentine's Day I missed at school are a little vague, but it was in the second or the third grade. I'm not even sure if a Valentine that folded back to make a ruffled heart was one with my name on it. Nothing comes through in memory about those insignificant things, because the most important fact was that a boy named Willard brought me my Valentines after school.

All day had been kinda sad for me because I couldn't be at school when THE BOX was opened, but all was forgotten when a knock at the door brought a grinning, freckled face ever-so-briefly as an arm handed Mother a sack with Mary's Valentines. He probably didn't even know I was feeling, for just appearing with the "delivery" took an untold amount of courage.

As for the Valentines themselves, they were generally four liners that stressed the mine-thine theme. The pictures were more fun than the words at that age, and the envelopes were... well, you wouldn't believe what compiled by the U.S. Bureau of the Census indicate Arkansas' population has risen almost 200,000 persons in the eight years since the official 1960 census.

Population in State Increases

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Figures

The "provisional" estimate, made as of July 1, 1968, shows Arkansas with a civilian population of 1,986,000. The 1960 figure was 1,786,272.

The national population increase was 11.5 per cent, compared to Arkansas' rise of 11.2 per cent. Arkansas and eight other states were ranked as registering increases of 8 to 11.9 per cent. Twenty-three states were ranked below that group in increase percentage and 18 were ranked above.

Senic River Bill Is Out

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill

to establish a scenic rivers system was reported out without recommendation Thursday by the Senate Committee on Conservation and Natural Resources.

The bill by Sen. Oscar Alagoz of Little Rock would form a system to include the Buffalo, Mulberry, Kings and Eleven Point rivers and Piney Creek.

Sen. Carl Sorrells' official streams and give the legislative power to make the designations after a study and public hearings on any river proposed for such a system.

kids could do with a name like mine (come to think of it, it still presents a challenge to a lot of adults) which they had only heard when the teacher called the roll.

Willard PUTT (the way he always pronounced PUT) me on Cloud 9 by just appearing at my door that afternoon. I doubt if he ever knew how thrilled I was, for, believe it or not, sometimes even I was shy. Whatever happened to him?

His dad was a railroad man who was transferred the next year clear out of the country—to Oklahoma. Naturally, the family went, too, thus ending a beautiful romance.

Allies Ignore Start of Viet Cong Ceasefire

By GEORGE ESPER

Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces ignored the start of a Viet Cong cease-fire today and continued air strikes and 60 offensive operations of battalion size or larger.

The enemy stand-down for Tet, the lunar new year holiday that begins Monday, is scheduled to last until Feb. 22. A South Vietnamese government source said Saigon would announce a short allied truce for Monday.

But he said the government would not announce details of the cease-fire until 11 p.m. Saigon time (10 a.m. EST), because it feared the enemy might break their own cease-fire pledge as they did last year, when they hit Saigon and 120 towns and cities in their biggest offensive of the war.

U.S. intelligence sources said three major North Vietnamese divisions, the 1st, 7th and 9th, are in border areas near Cambodia and not in position right now to attack Saigon. They said elements of the North Vietnamese 5th Division do pose a threat in War Zone D, about 30 miles north of the capital.

"They're not in position to launch a significant attack on Saigon right now," said one source, "but that certainly doesn't preclude isolated terrorist attacks and small-scale assaults."

In Bien Hoa province east of Saigon, a man wearing the robes of a Buddhist monk poured gasoline over himself, lit a match and burned to death, South Vietnamese authorities reported.

They said the incident occurred in front of a pagoda. No notes were found and no reason was determined for the action.

As the Viet Cong truce began some terrorist activity was reported but there was no major ground fighting.

Two terrorists in black pajamas killed a hamlet chief and a Vietnamese militiaman in a hamlet near Bong Son, 280 miles northeast of Saigon.

U.S. B52 bombers kept up their attacks along an arc north of Saigon aimed to prevent enemy troops from massing for an offensive. Since noon Friday 36 bombers dropped 1,080 tons of explosives on suspected enemy bases, troop concentrations and bunker complexes.

Headquarters announced the loss of a helicopter and a light observation plane over South Vietnam, raising to 2,368 the number of choppers and to 2,551 the number of fixed wing aircraft lost in the eight-year war.

The plane was shot down Wednesday south of Da Nang, killing one crewman and wounding another. The helicopter was downed Thursday in the Mekong Delta, and its two crewmen were wounded.

President Nguyen Van Thieu called for more military victories today so that South Vietnam will be able to effectively deal with the Communists at the Paris peace talks.

Thieu made the remark in one of series of holiday visits to military units. He recalled last year's Tet offensive. In Paris, where the peace talks are stalled, the negotiators' attention was focused on the Feb. 28 visit of President

Defense Says Sirhan Did Kill Kennedy

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the traumatic moment after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was shot, a young busboy cradled the senator's bloody head in his arms, whispered encouragement and placed a rosary in his hands.

"I said the first thing that came to my mind," Juan Romero said Friday to the jury that is trying Sirhan Bishara Sirhan for Kennedy's death. "I said, 'Come on Senator, you can make it.' Then his head dropped back."

Emile Zola Berman, one of Sirhan's three defenders, said in his opening statement that "there is no doubt... that he (Sirhan) did, in fact, fire the shot that killed Sen. Kennedy." But, Berman said, the defense will present psychiatric testimony that "at the actual moment of the shooting he was out of contact with reality, in a trance."

The state is trying to prove Sirhan killed Kennedy, June 5, 1968 with malice and premeditation—the elements of first degree murder. The defense hopes to show the killing was impulsive, without premeditation or malice. As Berman put it: "totally a product of a sick, obsessed mind and personality."

The pale, 24-year-old Jordanian rose from his chair in protest as Berman described him thus. He was obviously agitated, murmuring "No, no." A court inspector leaned over the chair of defense investigator Michael McCowan and said, "Talk to him, Mike."

McCowan pushed Sirhan back into his chair and whispered to him for several minutes. There were no further incidents and Sirhan smiled broadly a number of times during the day.

The first day's testimony also revealed that a last minute change in plans brought Kennedy to his deadly encounter with Sirhan—in a pantry off the Ambassador Hotel ballroom where the senator had just claimed victory in California's presidential primary.

Romero had gone to the ballroom to hear Kennedy speak and preceded him to the pantry area. Shortly after midnight Romero saw someone coming toward Kennedy.

"I thought it was a person who couldn't wait to shake his hand," Romero said with his heavy Spanish accent. "I saw the guy put a hand at the senator's head. And then I saw a gun."

"Then I saw Sen. Kennedy stretched out in front of me. I leaned down and picked up his head."

On cross-examination, defense attorney Russell E. Parsons asked if Kennedy—who died 25 hours later—said anything.

"He said, 'Is everybody all right? Is everybody okay?'" Romero answered.

Romero was asked if the man who did the shooting was in the room. He shook his head.

Sirhan was asked to stand. "I don't believe that's him," Romero said.

Even Sirhan smiled.
